

Charity Auctions Module

Being the first celebrity management platform on the blockchain, TokenStars is excited to use the benefits of blockchain for a good cause. Blockchain ensures the transparency of donations and helps to increase the volume of proceeds, as well as enabling to track every transaction and see what path the donations took.

TokenStars is among the first blockchain platforms to be used for charity purposes. The idea received massive support from famous athletes and musicians. Once the auction is over, we publish a report showing all the transactions.

TokenStars approach to the crypto auctions

At TokenStars we believe that we have done an important job for the development of the crypto charity market — the first TokenStars module, crypto auctions, was launched in 4Q of 2017. During this time, 24 auctions were held with the participation of top stars, who provided personal items for auctions, and the 100% of funds raised were sent to charities. A separate smart contract was launched for each lot, which allows you to track the history of bets.

Here is a full list of stars who donated their items:

- ★ Lothar Matthaus — FIFA World Cup champion.
- ★ Gianluca Zambrotta — FIFA World Cup Champion.
- ★ Valery Karpin — 2-time winner of the Russian Cup.
- ★ Martina Hingis — one of the greatest female tennis players and 5-time Grand Slam winner.

- ★ Anastasia Myskina — Roland Garros champion.
- ★ Tommy Haas — former #2 in the ATP ranking.
- ★ Cedric Pioline — former #4 in the ATP ranking.
- ★ Dusan Lajovic — Davis Cup finalist.
- ★ Robin Söderling — #4 in the ATP ranking.
- ★ Pavel Datsyuk — NHL star, Olympic and World Cup champion.

All the money raised will go to nonprofit organisations all over the world, chosen by the celebrities. The list of charities includes FC Herzogenaurach Youth Development, Downside Up, Right to Play, and Laureus Sport for Good .

“We highly appreciate the support from all the celebrities who responded to our initiative. The items they’ve donated are absolutely unique and extremely valuable for anyone who is passionate about sports and music. We are honored to join forces with such established names in order to draw more attention to the charities”, says Pavel Stukolov, the ex-CEO and advisor of the project

One of the most notable auctions and at the same time the one with the highest bid was conducted together with Martina Hingis — one of the most famous tennis stars, the winner of US Open, Australian Open, and Wimbledon. Martina signed her personal tennis t-shirt, worn at Wimbledon tournament, and it was sold for $987. She transferred the whole amount to Right To Play organization which attempts to teach children in need with educational games.
