

TokenStars May Report: Per Aspera Ad Astra

In May, we added a new item to our store, followed the Ice Hockey World Championship with our community, and continued to look for promising players. Did everything work out? We will tell you in our traditional monthly report.

- IIHF matches in the predictions contest
- Application in the poker stream
- New item in the e-comm module
- New home tournament is announced

IIHF matches in the predictions contest

This time we watched the national teams at the Ice Hockey World Championship. The main trophy went to the Canadian team, and the best predictors from our community shared 10,000 TEAM tokens.

The three leaders were determined unambiguously. But in the fourth and fifth places, the participants scored an equal number of points. Therefore, the distribution of tokens was as follows:

First place - 3800 TEAM

Second place - 2550 TEAM

Third place - 1750 TEAM

Fourth & fifth places - 950 TEAM

Application in the poker stream

We continue to look for talented poker players. In May, we received an application from Batdorj Bertsetseg from Mongolia.

Player's statistics:

- ROI — -17%
- ITM — 17,5%
- Prize money— $3,303

Unfortunately, negative ROI did not allow us to put the player to a vote. She received a rejection from our experts.

New item in the e-comm module

Shorts from Zenit player Alexey Sutormin are on sale in the e-commerce module! The item is Alexey's pair of Nike shorts with the 19th number worn during the Russian Premier League season which ended with the champion title for Zenit.

Aleksey Sutormin is a Russian football player. He plays as a left-winger for Zenit St. Petersburg. Alexey is the RPL champion of the 19/20 and 20/21 seasons and 19/20 Russian Cup winner.
